"Bob Rogers transforms his knowledge and passion for Buffalo Soldiers into an interesting and educational experience for his viewers."
Twi Brown
The Carolina Pacemaker

"Praise for Bob's seminar was still coming in days after the event."
Dr. Cheryl Brayboy
JCSU Professor of Humanities

Author Bob Rogers arouses remembrance and inspires "can do!" in his audiences. Using mini-stories from his historical novels, Will and Dena (2009) and First Dark: A Buffalo Soldier's Story (2011), he delivers wisdom and guidance from ordinary 19th and 20th century people for 21st century leaders and entrepreneurs.

Growing up in agrarian South Carolina during the 1940s and '50s, Bob not only was among the handful of males graduating from high school, he was the class valedictorian. He was devastated when he learned he had no chance at an appointment to the United States Air Force Academy. Stopped in his tracks? No! Bob became a Distinguished Military Graduate from South Carolina State University and later led troops of the Army's historic Tenth Cavalry in combat during the Vietnam War. After his stint as an army officer, he was an "intrapreneur" at IBM.

Bob Rogers writes a series of acclaimed historical novels from the point of view of ordinary soldiers and their families in love and war. He edits the Internet-based Buffalo Soldier Sentinel Ezine and for ten years has provided community service in the form of computer and Internet instruction to senior citizens in Charlotte, NC. While managing his medical data company, he recently volunteered for three years to assist a teacher in a high school computer class. It all fits his mantra: "Go hard, or go home!"
